Plan to Fight Crime
By Arthur Brisbane

CHICAGO, 1927. By Max Company.

THIS Santa Fe train slides down through the Cajon Pass to the biggest citrus groves and vineyards in the world. Your dining car neighbor assures you that in ten years Los Angeles will be the biggest city in the world. He is not discouraged by the fact that New York is gaining 200,000 a year.

The Examiner meets you with a statement that Los Angeles population is now about 1,000,000, and assuming a 10% increase in population every 100 years, it will take 100 years to reach 2,000,000.

The biggest cities, once on the West coast, moved to the Atlantic coast. The world's population is now on the Pacific or near the edge in the next century. New York and Chicago must be reconnected to that although flying machines may take the place of water and make the real ocean the air and every city a seaport.

New Yorkers that made up their minds to nominate Mr. Hughes as the man to beat Governor Smith in New York State now learn from Mr. Hughes that he won't run and President Coolidge says that he does not choose, so the nomination is wide open for three men—Hoover, Dawes, Lowden. But if you had a million dollars for each grand American now working to get the nomination away from these three and firmly convinced he will get it you would be the richest man in the world.

Last August the stock market broke when President Coolidge's first "Do not choose" came out and on Wednesday last that foolish market broke again because the President said he meant it. What frightened the stock market and speculators? They think Hoover, Lowden or Dawes would declare war on Palagonia, abandon the gold standard, abolish the writ of habeas corpus, close factories, stop the rainfall and destroy crops. Mr. Coolidge is a good President, wisely allowing those that know how to run the country's business to run it. Other good men are ready to do the same. The wise will not choose to sell their stocks because Mr. Coolidge does not choose to run.

An unfortunate Hindu woman, attempting to perform the rite of a funeral pyre beside the corpse of her husband, and was burned to death before British police could rescue her that she died. Now 1,500 Hindus fight to get charged treatment of the woman's dress. Hundreds of rupees are paid for a small piece, supposed to be sacred.

SOURCE OF $1,200,000 FUND FOR SENATORS SOUGHT IN INQUIRY

Washington, Dec. 9. (A.P.)—Immediate investigation by a special committee of the Senate of published charges in Mexico papers that Mexico provided $1,200,000 for four United States Senators was ordered today by the Senate. The matter was called to the attention of the Senate by Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania.

A resolution by Senator Reed providing the inquiry be ordered without a record vote and without debate. Vice President Dawes named Reed as chairman of the investigating committee, with Senators Jones of Washington, and Johnson, California, Republicans, and Robinson, Arkansas, and Bruce, Maryland, Democrats.

BEACH OFFERS TO TAKE ALL BLAME IN KILLING

Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 9.—Mr. Lilliendahl, widow of Dr. William A. Lilliendahl, for whom murder she was convicted, may escape a prison sentence.

It was learned on good authority today that Willie Beach, the dagger little party farmer, who was found guilty with her of voluntary manslaughter, may make a charge against her to absolve the widow of all blame in the crime.

The couple, whose love affair, the jury believed, led to the killing of Dr. Lilliendahl in a patch of woods near Hammonton on September 15, are scheduled to face Supreme Court Justice Luther A. Campbell for sentence tomorrow.

The maximum sentence that can be imposed is ten years in prison and $1,000 fine. There is no minimum term by law, hence a jail term of one day could be given.

VARE, JUST LIKE SMITH, DENIED SENATE SEAT

Washington, Dec. 9.—The Senate this afternoon denied Senator-elect William A. Vare (R.) of Pennsylvania, the right to take his oath of office and referred his case to the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Today's action was similar to that by which Frank L. Smith of Illinois was barred on Wednesday, pending investigation of their campaign expenditures by the Reed Committee.

This virtually ended their race as having barred Vare and Smith temporarily, there is no likelihood the Senate will reverse its decision. The Vare forces, however, secured an order from the Senate for the Reed committee to file its final report within 60 days.

The vote on which Vare was barred was 22 to 21. The vote against Smith was 25 to 25.

Five Democrats voted with 25 Republicans to administer the oath and 16 Republicans and one Farmer Labor joined with 38 Democrats against it.

BETTER BE SURE THAN SORRY

You are gambling with health, perhaps even with life itself, when you take for your cold any medicine containing nerve-deadening drugs or alcohol unless your doctor prescribes it. Doctors have proved the value of Father John's Medicine during its 70 years of success and they often prescribe it for colds, coughs and as a holy healer because they know it does not contain alcohol or drugs of any kind in any form.

Four Senators Are

Named in Order

To Pay $1,215,000

As told in previous articles in this series the transfer of the money was held up for some days. Here is an order issued by President Calles after complaint from Elias who urged the transfer be made quickly "account urgently making necessary arrangements with Senator——." The original of this document is in the possession of the Hearst newspapers.

PART OF MEXICAN RECORDS

[illegible]

On the 21st of the month, I returned two days ago from the border town of Nogales, where I had been and today I delivered to him the funds stipulated in the agreement and the documents which I expect may be delivered to their destination. I have believed that not only the funds but also the documents at the present moment, any observation referring to the Sheffield Clause, because I expect that I will have the documents from Mexico in order to be able to present the matter without the necessity of any further explanation. I would be perilous to broach the matter without the necessary explanation, and I must wait until Congress, but if you consider it important (or advisable) I will have the documents immediately.

Another interesting exhibit in the possession of the Hearst papers is an actual ledger sheet, taken from the ledger of the Mexican Government Department of Auditing and Revision of Foreign Accounts, a branch of the Treasury Department.

Page No. 251 of this ledger contains an entry recording the transfer of $1,200,000 to the Mexican Financial Agent in New York, purported to be for payment to the three United States Senators who are mentioned by name. The Hearst papers have this loose-leaf ledger sheet with the various

DELAY IN TRANSFER

There was considerable delay in the transfer of the fund specified in the foregoing Montes de Oca order, as explained in preceding articles of this series, and on August 1 the Mexican Treasury Department was advised by President Calles that Financial Agent Elias had cabled from New York, complaining of the delay. Calles notified the Treasury Department over his written ad-

"It would be perilous," Elias told me, "to broach the matter without the support of the Senate, sustained in Congress, but if I consider it important for advisable I will handle the matter immediately with the Secretary of State."

His papers are not able to clarify this mysterious and apparently unfriendly reference to James Roosevelt, but it is known that the United States ambassador to Mexico is in the Elias letter to Teller.

In the Elias letter to Teller I found the second suggestion of a salary increase for the members of the United States Senators whom he proposed to pay $150,000. The first reference was to a salary of $100,000 for the Elias to President Calles on July 1926, and published by the American yesterday. Readers of the

MERCY FOR MAN WHO KILLED HIS FATHER

In Superior Court, the sting of justice's demand was removed today by the judge's comment as Giuseppe Turco was sentenced to a short term in State Prison.

It was the strange story told in court: a story of a woman's life, and suffering, and devotion, and seven years that inspired the remark of Judge Frederick W. Parker in passing sentence of him from three to five years on Turco of Fifty street, North End, who killed his father and shot his mother.

"The act of this man was committed under the most extreme provocation," Judge Parker declared in granting the demand of Assistant District Attorney McQuinn that a prison sentence be administered because a human life had been taken.

According to the story, Turco's young wife, for seven years and without the husband's knowledge, had been subjected to abuse of various sorts by her father-in-law and mother-in-law.

Turco knew his wife was distressed by her parents, but for seven years, when her emotion overcame her, did he learn, according to the testimony, that the abuse and beat-going on quietly behind his back. On the two occasions, it was said, his father tried to attack the accused wife, but she had kept silent for the sake of peace.

Turco confronted his father in a rage, an altercation took place, the father made demands, and Turco killed him and wounded his mother. The defendant admitted that. He was followed to plead guilty of manslaughter.

TAX CUT FIGHT 4,477 YEARS IN JAIL FOR WETS

Washington, Dec. 9 (U.S.S.)—Facing a long and stormy legislative voyage, the new tax reduction bill was to be formally launched upon its course in the House late today. Two plans were cutting the nation's revenue $25,515,000 annually, and the other approximately $10 million—will be presented to a Congress eager to use the printing knife.

Starting as essentially partisan, the tax reduction struggle is expected to develop into a free-for-all before the bill arrives at its destination for approval or veto by President Coolidge.

Representative Green (R.) of Iowa, chairman of the ways and means committee, will lead the fight to limit tax reductions to $25,000,000. He is to be followed by Representative Garner (D.) of Texas, minority leader, who will propose amendments that would make the total cut about $10,000,000.

THOMPSON "TOO BUSY" TO MEET BRITISH DEBATORS

Chicago, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—The first debating team which hoped to talk over the Pro-British history lesson with Mayor Thompson was disappointed, but it wasn't because the mayor didn't try.

"We arrived in Chicago early in the morning," explained Frank Darvall of the debating team, "and waited so long to see Mayor Thompson, who seems to be a very busy man, that we missed our train to Rockford, Ill., where we had a debate scheduled. Also, two of my col-

WORLD AVIATION PARLEY URGED BY COOLIDGE

Washington, Dec. 9 (A.P.)—An international civil aviation conference in Washington next December was urged today by President Coolidge in a letter to the Civil Aeronautics Conference now in session here.

"Next December will witness the 15th anniversary of the first flight by man in a power-driven heavier-than-air machine," President Coolidge's letter said.

"It was made by Mr. Orville Wright, one of our fellow-citizens who is still living and actively interested in his further application for commercial purposes."

"I have had in mind that this important anniversary might be properly celebrated by holding here an international civil aviation conference and exhibition in conjunction with your annual meeting."

"Should this be found practicable, its success could in a large measure depend upon your cooperation, which I am confident can be relied upon."

A man that the Department of Commerce undertakes in future the inspection of all airplanes and their pilots and other guarantees of safety in flying was made by Colonel Lindbergh in a short address to the conference today.

"Speed and carrying capacity and of great importance in competing with other forms of transportation," he said, "but without safety and reliability aviation can never attain its rightful position in world commerce."

Modern planes, Lindbergh continued, slow now that flying is not only possible but that the hands of skilled pilots the conditions are lower than in any other form of transportation.

"This industry, however, can never become truly great until it has the full confidence of the public," he said, adding that in order to gain that confidence "we must assure the public of safety of both reliable equipment and experienced personnel for its operation."

Inspection and regulation of aircraft for him must therefore be one of the most important functions of the Commerce Department, he declared.

"In the short period of its existence," Colonel Lindbergh continued, "the division of aeronautics has gone for toward maintaining commercial aviation, although it has been greatly hampered by lack of authority to regulate inter-State activities."

HELP MAKE THIS A MERRY XMAS FOR HORSES!

Will you help the horses to enjoy Christmas?

Throughout Greater Boston there are thousands of faithful beasts, many of them underfed and overworked, whose condition is reflected annually by the Annual Horse League.

"The Horses' Christmas" was started by the league in 1913, although work for horses was begun in 1902, shortly after its organization.

Each year since 1913 men and animals loaded with loads of feed have been sent to stables where there are horses used by men who are not able to feed them sufficient.

This year the work will be carried out as usual December 24 and 25 and the sympathy and help of the public is solicited. Last year employees of the league visited more than 200 stables in Boston and in adjoining towns and cities and fed 2,000 horses.

They also purchased 15 horses found in the stables until for further service yet still in horses.

This work begins the day before Christmas and continues until Christmas afternoon. The men work several days previously filling the bags with an appetizing mixture of grain, hay, apples and carrots. The League has found this the most proper way of obtaining the Christmas for horses. It is hoped to have enough money this year to buy a dozen or more blankets for horses and agents find not properly covered.

Cheeks should be made payable to the Annual Horse League and sent to No. 61 Carver street, Boston.

According to the police charge, Mrs. O'Connell, who was Miss Gertrude Mayou, was found wandering at the North Station in Boston on October 29 and was taken in charge by the Travelers' Aid Society. The police claim that the mother came to Brockton on November 26 and registered at the Norria. The next day the hotel received a letter from a woman stating that she had been injured and asking that the hotel care for "her baby" in her room. Hotel officials found the baby and reported to the police.

WORLD FLIERS VISIT HUB

GUESTS IN CAMBRIDGE

Ensign George O. Goerloff, navigator; Consul Theophilus Wessen, reserve pilot; and Ensign Storm Archer, pilot, of the projected American Viking flight around the world, come to Boston to tell Scandinavians about the trip.

VIKING FLIER FINDS KIN IN BROOKLINE

After a separation of 18 years, Ensign Storm Archer, U. S. Naval aviator, who is to be pilot of the proposed American Viking Aeronautical Association, round-the-world flight next Spring, was reunited today with his cousin, Frank B. Norman of Brookline.

Archer, with Consul T. Wessen and Ensign George O. Goerloff, U. S. N. R., all official fliers on the projected cruise, are making a tour of New England for the purpose of acquiring Scandinavians with the object of the flight.

While in Cambridge, where they are to be guests of honor at two banquets tomorrow night, Archer revealed that in his boyhood, while a resident of Greater Boston, he played with a cousin, Frank B. Norman, then residing in Medford. After some difficulty he located Norman by telephone, and the Brookline man journeyed to Cambridge to meet his long-lost cousin with whom he had no communication during the past 18 years.

It is the intention of the American Viking Aeronautical Association to send a specially constructed aeroplane to be called the "American Viking," on a series of non-stop, non-stop flights, starting May 1. The route will be from New York to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; to Cape Town, South Africa; to Bombay, India; to Constantinople, Turkey; to Rome, Italy; to Stockholm, Sweden; to Oslo, Norway; to Copenhagen, Denmark; and from the Danish capital to New York.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

MISS DAI BUELL

Who was at honor table at the literary luncheon given Dorothy Nichols and Miss Doris Teale at the Repertory Theatre.

THE VOICE OF CELEBRATING CHRISTMAS IN FOREIGN LANDS has its own favorite place in the plans of literate travelers, short for the thrill of "something different" to be had from new environment. The Christmas season is well under way, and tomorrow as the Costa Rican steamer out from New York also takes a Boston contingent pleasantly anticipating the Yuletide as celebrated overseas.
Mrs. Edward Everett Blodgett of Brookline is en route. So too are Mrs. Robert O. Brichman of Barnstable on the Cape and the Hotel
Sheraton and Mrs. Grace R. Stevens, also of that hotel.

HOWEVER ILLUMINATING BEVERLY NICHOLS IS (AND HE is greatly so) before a large audience it is in the more intimate company of drawingroom proportions that one gets him at his ultracushy best. So it was yesterday in the Repertory Theatre's mellow toned library when he and Miss Doris Teale—two very modest hosts—were the chief attractions of the Literary Luncheon. These two are illustrous examples of genius as manifest in the Younger Generation—Mr. Nichols just turned the quarter century mark and Miss Teale not yet old enough "to sign a contract" as she expressed it, and both signally successful.

MR. NICHOLS' FAME IS TRAVELING BEFORE HIM IN HIS progress through these United States. Miss Teale already has her foot securely on the lower rung of fame's shifting ladder. She is perhaps, speaking locally, the youngest and newest author we have.
She was a being of slender grace (yesterday), in a golden brown robe and cascade hat several shades lighter than her deep brown eyes. Mrs. John Abbott, in gray, was a distinguished figure at the honor table at the left hand of the mitchy. Miss Dai Buell was at the honor table, and so were Professor and Mrs. Dallas Lane Sharpe, Miss Mary Byrd Turner and Henry Jewett.

MISS KATHERINE CHAPMAN WARREN'S COSTUME FOR THE luncheon was velvet chiton brocade with some antique gold ornaments. She was an honor guest. Mrs. Joseph Courtney having completed an opera amusingly satirical in deep in plans for its future presentation. From the limited few permitted to know its fine points of plot and situation, its music and its lines, come words of highest commendation. Various plans are under way, but now, being in the stage just preceding final decision, there's nothing definite to be said.
Mrs. Courtney's friends will be emptying their waiting when presentation finally comes.

SPEAKING OF GENIUS, BOSTON DEPENDS NOT WHOLLY ON the imports from Britania. Mrs. Joseph Courtney having completed an opera amusingly satirical in deep in plans for its future presentation. From the limited few permitted to know its fine points
of plot and situation, its music and its lines, come words of highest commendation. Various plans are under way, but now, being in the stage just preceding final decision, there's nothing definite to be said.
Mrs. Courtney's friends will be emptying their waiting when presentation finally comes.

MRS. EMMONS, BY THE BYE, IS JUST BACK FROM A WEEK of Gotham's gaieties, and was radiant. As usual she put up at the Ritz, while in New York, and also as usual there were many pleasant almos done for her. And furthermore, and as usual she is doing valiant service for a pet charity immediately on her return to town.
This time the "Caravan" at Horticultural Hall for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club claims her attention. She has one of the tables. "Car-van" has closed its first successful day, and now is in its second record breaker. Since it goes on from 11 in the morning until 11 in the evening there is something for everyone.

"THE AMATEURS" OF BROOKLINE SCORE ANOTHER triumph to the credit of their twenty-one years' span. "Amateurs
We All" is exactly the perfectly polished off production the hallu-cinate of the famous amateur corps has come to expect. Three performances, the usual trio given by "The Amateurs", are completed this evening, in Whitney Hall. Important audiences have been and are the rule. And as for favorites of the cast—it's difficult to name excellencies when all are so good—but perhaps the palms should go to Alan Hay as the "Honorable Willie" to E. Irving Locke as "Lord Gretham" and to Miss Rob Holmes as the "Honorable Mrs.
Talham."

THINGS ARE GOING MERRILY
at No. 27 Huntington avenue,
as the North Bennet Street School
Sale bears the end of its first week.
The enormous showroom, attractively set out in "apartments," is a society Mecca every hour of the day. It's a marvelous storehouse of treasures to browse in, and that is exactly what Winifred and Monsieur love to do. Is there a wedding gift to be bought? Or an oblivion for one's own collection? Or the Christmas list be considered?
There's something rare and unusual to fit each niche.

THE NEW YEAR FOR THE debutantes rings in some interesting affairs. According to present plans the Younger Set will dance as guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Edgar C. Rust, and in honor of Miss Rosemond Cutler on the eve of January 14. And on the 10th of the month trip the light fantasy at the party Mrs. Arthur Jackson gives for Miss Rosemond Jackson. The first month of the New Year is also diverting to the end and because of the lunchoon Mrs. Edward Bonelli gives at the Ritz for Miss Barbara Bonelli.

An Interesting Array of Gifts That Will Add to Home Cheer

At no time throughout the year are thoughts of home comfort and cheer closer to our hearts than now—these fast-fading last days before Christmas.

And never before, in our experience, has there been such a tendency to give home furnishings in preference to knick-knacks and gew-gaws.

Worthy of note, is it not, that while the world grows bigger and bigger and more and more of the people are leaving the old homes for the greater centers, that the homing instinct is ever increasing.

We expect most of you folks will be going back somewhere and that you will be bringing or sending along a suitable remembrance.

Please make everything easier for us and pleasanter for those on the other end by selecting in time to insure prompt and satisfactory delivery, for, of course, you know we deliver anywhere in New England by truck or freight.

Thumb-Jerkers

Young People Who Beg Automobile Rides Should Be Given NO Encouragement

The sorrowful case reported a few days since from York, Maine, is the first we have seen reported of the death of a "thumb-pointer" on the highway. Even if there were NO danger associated with it, however, this particular form of hitch-hiking is MOST objectionable.

Asking strangers for rides is a cheap and chattering practice. It says a boy's self-reliance, tends to make him lazy, gives him the notion that there are easier and better ways of getting things than by working for them.

Signaling to a neighbor that you would be glad to climb in beside him in the family driver is one thing, brazenly lifting your right hand to a stranger and jerking the thumb in the direction in which you would travel is quite another. The boy who indulges in the custom day after day might just as well hang a tin cup from his neck and carry a sign reading, "I am Dumb."

The trouble is that youth does not consider a subject from all its angles. With reference to this particular habit, therefore, the motorist must think for them and, until his thoughtful parent wants HIS boy to be a beggar, of free transportation or anything else.

Motorists should not give strange children free rides. Drivers should be adamant toward the thumb-jerker.

The Arboretum

You Know All About It, of Course

Raising of the Charles Sprague Sargent $1,000,000 endowment fund for the Arnold Arboretum will direct the attention of residents of Greater Boston to ONE of the treasures which is theirs, the greatest hardy plant garden in all the world.

A good test of any man's knowledge of how to find his way about in Boston is to ask him for directions to the Arboretum. Almost anyone can tell you how to get to Bunker Hill Monument, the Public Garden or Faneuil Hall, but many are abysmally ignorant concerning these 223 acres in Jamaica Plain and their display of more than 6,000 varieties of trees, shrubs and vines.

Every father in Boston owes it to his growing children to take them one day to the Arboretum and its hills and dales. Professor Sargent was the garden's founder and, until his lamented death last Spring, its only director. The Memorial Fund will not be collected in that way, of course, but it could be completed in a week if each resident of Greater Boston who has yet to make his first visit to the Arboretum would subscribe one dollar.

He Sleeps

She Reads and Thinks

THE LOVE STORY

This picture, printed by that interesting paper, the London Bystander, supplies married people with material for serious thinking.

The young wife reads the love story aloud, and the husband, tired, bored, and getting old, sleeps. That is the danger spot in marriage.

Married life will stand every strain except INDIFFERENCE.

Trouble begins when that which interests one deeply interests the other NOT AT ALL.

This man might be older than he is, fatter than he is, homelier than he is, and have less hair. If he were sincerely and constantly interested in things interesting to his wife their marriage could be successful.

But when the reader aloud, especially about LOVE, which is to married life what electricity is to the telegraph and telephone, then comes trouble.

Man cannot always keep his youth, strength, looks. The same applies to women.

But each in marriage can keep and show interest in the other; every man can retain the courtesy and thoughtfulness which every wife is entitled.

Marriage is an institution that will stand many shocks and trials. But it will not stand INDIFFERENCE.

Farmers

Setting the Usual Jolly

Just before national elections, farmers are very popular. They are, in fact, made heroic to the exclusion of most other classes of voters. A prominent Western Senator who is named as a Presidential possibility, says: "The farmer is the backbone of the nation."

Perhaps, but if so, the poor ultimate consumer in the city must be the backbone.

PUBLIC INTERESTED IN SAVING OIL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FROM the time a few short years ago when a scum was first observed on certain pools and streams to the present day, the petroleum business has made enormous strides.

It now represents billions of dollars and supports many vital industries.

One has only to stand on the street corner in the center of any of our large cities and observe the unceasing stream of motorists to realize what the cessation of the oil supply would mean. All these cars would disappear over night, and the whole aspect of our civilization would change.

And this is not all of it. Oil-burning steamers are somewhat in vogue now and there are battleships which burn oil. It would probably be impossible for air craft to use any other kind of fuel, as no substitute for gasoline light enough has been discovered.

The movement for the conservation of our oil supply therefore is not to be determined merely by the demands of the trade or the needs of those who are in it to make money, for the whole public is dependent upon it.

As far as we can see, the utilization of gasoline is increasing constantly. Bus systems are spreading throughout the country, and one company announces a transcontinental bus service in the near future.

The airship industry is still in its infancy and airplanes are multiplying daily. There is no letup to the production of automobiles. Countless new cars are produced every year.

All this depends fundamentally upon what is a precarious thing, after all, the supply of petroleum in the earth. There is no check-restriction for the exhaustion of the supply.

Whether it is a matter for the Federal Government to take up or where it had better be left to the producers, experts alone can say.

But these gentlemen should be reminded that the public is interested in this matter as well as the individuals, and some means should be devised at once to conserve our fast-vanishing oil supply.

(Copyright, McGraw-Hill Book Company)

Boston DAY BY DAY

EX-MAYOR JOHN F. FITZGERALD is a Massachusetts politician. Attending the New England Council at Springfield, he learned that Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont were spending freely on advertising of New England as a tourist attraction. Mr. Fitzgerald, on his return to Boston, made several pleas for Massachusetts State advertising in other parts of the country.

A $10,000,000 state ought to be able to do this. His historic and natural attractions for the tourist trade. Mr. Fitzgerald stated.

Incidentally, "Sweet Aladdin" was along with him as great factor as a score of years ago.

About a year ago a group of insurance men, real estate men, writers and business men wondered why the advertising Club of Boston could not have its own orchestra. Every Tuesday night the weekly luncheon orchestra, led by Franklin P. Torrey, plays after a brief meeting. Mr. Torrey says they have never had any professional players and that their practice is only for a few minutes before each meeting. Nevertheless, these amateur players do so well their work is broadcast each week.

Charles L. Burdett's hobbies may interest him, but his wife, Clara, is a thrill. Finds her greatest joy in day-dreaming young women. As a hotel hostess of the first rank, Mrs. Burdett has the confidence of the dams of the women's colleges, who are called to permit college girls' silent functions at which Mrs. Burdett will play.

The position requires tact, social knowledge and great diplomacy.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"WOULD you try to force your parents to be able to recognize the level on which their child is functioning. You wouldn't slap your car because it wasn't going forty miles in low or fly into a tantrum because it didn't do sixty miles in intermediate. You'd know perfectly well that your car would be wrecked if you tried to produce such a performance and put children who are still in low—unable to act here through instinct—or in intermediate—

Nicholas Hicokard isn't an automobile expert. He works with youngsters of all ages, from small tots to boys and girls in the second year of Junior College. His problems are far from automobile row but he knows that there is an intimate tie between that expensive model in the dealer's window and that super-mechanical machine—the human body.

"A growing child has three shifts of levels of action—low as well as an engine," he says.

First, there's the INSTINCT level, which corresponds to "low." A baby grasping at a red apple, a boy missing a basketball, a girl missing a cookie—two children quarreling, acting out in sudden squalling anger—this is human nature on "low," responding without reasoning to its savage instincts of hunger, curiosity or rage.

Next, there's the OBSERVATION level. That's human nature speeding up a little. Beginning to think about things, looking things over, speculating. Questioning. Getting names for things. Getting reasons for things. Putting two and two together. The mind is beginning to grow when it shifts to the OBSERVATION level. It's going into gear.

Last, there's "high"—the INTER-PERSONAL level. Making a plan for oneself out of life. Putting together the things one sees, and its things one sees, and deciding on a course of action. Getting things done. Putting two and two together. The mind is beginning to grow when it shifts to the OBSERVATION level. It's going into gear.

Make your child, don't let it. We'd use half as much sense with our children as we use with our automobiles what a different world it would be.

"Every parent should know that."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MURIELS
"WHAT have you done?" the bright hours cry.
The while they have, repeating, by.
"What have you done, for good or ill, Since dawn you up the farthest hill?"
"Have you some work of body to do?"
Or bring some child a swift delight?
Some child of thought your brain to try.
And you, ye gods, fill the day
With good that will not pass away?"
"The day, my great and splendid task,
If to day thought you bring the task."
